THURSDAY, July 21, 1910.

Ninety-one years ago the first steamship crossed the Atlantic, leaving from Savannah.

It is regrettable that nearly all of the pleasant ways to keep cool is not work, this weather.

It is more or less doubtful as to whether or not the cost of living can go higher than the mercury.

The suggestion that "Mr. Roosevelt will take the stump" is a trifle confusing. Seems as if he took it about eight years ago, and still has it.

It is said 15,000,000 words were spoken during the recent session of Congress. Congress was almost as great a word mill as was Reno, Nev.

The Washington Herald truthfully says that no one cares a hang what happens to the sugar trust, knowing well enough that nothing will happen.

The Department of Agriculture will conduct a model dairy farm in Maryland. Now is the time for cows intending to get a situation there to prepare for the civil service examination.

Dr. Wiley, the Government Chemist, says there is nothing especially dangerous in kissing. Some of the summer girls will forgive the good doctor now for the mean things he has said about ice cream soda.

The Wind and Our Nerves.

The east winds hug the earth more closely and gather moisture, dust and bacteria. They are cold and humid, altogether forming an enervating influence on human and animal life and rendering it susceptible to the disease germs which the winds carry and disseminate.

The cool, pure northwest winds come from a region of dry highly electrified air where ozone exists in comparatively large quantities. They are invigorating. The framework of nerves in the human being is like a delicate electrical apparatus, the nerves being the wires and the brain and ganglia receiving and distributing centers.

Every one knows that a telephone works better on a clear, dry day than on a wet, muggy one. The moist atmosphere lessens vitality. The nerve wires grow placid and heavy. The messages become confused. Hence low spirits, melancholia, distorted mental outlook, faulty assimilation and disease.

A prolonged calm means lack of ventilation on a great scale. The winds serve to mix in normal proportions the gases which compose the atmosphere, and in this way they are conducive to health up to a certain point. Beyond about twenty miles an hour their influence begins to be unfavorable.

SOUTHPORT.

Miss Pansie Tiller is visiting friends in Vernon this week.

Mr. Moore is taking a much needed vacation. His many friends hope for a speedy return of health.

Mrs. F. H. Rhodes chaperoned a jolly crowd to the Gulf Saturday evening, and of course had a jolly time.

Southport is fast forging to the front in more ways than one, as the ice cream social of last Thursday evening plainly shows what is in store for the people, for through the efforts of Messrs. John Taylor and Early Tillman, assisted by the Misses Della Harvey, Faye Rhodes, Flora Anderson and Pansie Tiller, who were desirous of making a remaining payment on the church organ. After due deliberation, the idea of a social presented itself, and acting upon the resolution, the new store building was secured for that purpose. Early Thursday morning, these workers repaired to the woods for decorations and by four o'clock, this plain wood building was converted into a veritable fairy land and with the soft electric lights which were there through courtesy of the Southport Lumber Co., made a scene long to be remembered.

Upon entering this artistic woodland, one felt so close to nature that her heart throbs were almost perceptible; and when the strains of an orchestra burst forth from behind a screen of palms we said, "surely this is paradise," for did not the woodland fairies appear with trays of delicious cream and cooling drinks that rivaled the sweetest nectar brought from the east.

Yes, the fairies carried trays of cream until the coffers were well filled and in the "we small hours" they returned to their sylvan glades to return again when the people of Southport demand something more of this profitable, refined and artistic nature.

Yes, the children were and their pleasure planned in advance. In one corner of the woods, screened by trees and shrubs, a fish pond furnished amusement, and the laughter of children made the "welkin ring." Tiny sail boats came to the surface and were fished out by surprised and delighted children; even sea kittens and dolls that looked like mermaids as they emerged from the glassy pool; a polar bear who strayed from his icy haunts, was captured also; a soldier who rattled in his tin armor, strayed into the line of the enemy and was taken prisoner. Altogether the children voted it the best time they ever had and next time may we stand where the waves of the beautiful bay laps the shores and fish toys from the depths of its waters.

Unanimous praise is bestowed on the above mentioned young people for their unremitting efforts and "good will."

Gen. Manager Stores of the Inter-State fair, Pensacola, writes that while he has received a number of requests for premium lists from this county, he thinks there must be a large number of progressive farmers who have copies of it, and be making preparations for an exhibit.

Don't fail to see that new line of buggies, at Dunn Hdw. Co.

Trouble.

Don't you trouble trouble
'Till trouble troubles you,
Don't you look for trouble
Let trouble look for you.

Don't you borrow sorrow,
You'll surely have your share,
He who dreams of sorrow,
Will find that sorrow's there.

Don't you hurry worry,
By worrying, lest it comes;
To flurry is to worry,
'Twill miss if you're mum.

If care you've got to carry,
Wait till its at the door,
For he who runs to meet it,
Takes up the load before.

It minding will not mind it,
Then better not to mind;
The best thing is to end it—
Just leave it all behind.

Who feareth, has forsaken,
The Heavenly Father's side;
What He hath undertaken
He surely will provide.

The very birds re-echo thee,
With all their happy song;
The very flowers teach thee,
That fretting is a wrong.

Cheer up! the sparrow chirpeth,
Thy Father feedeth me;
Think how much He careth,
O lonely child, for thee!

"Fear not, the flowers whisper,"
Since thus He hath arrayed,
The buttercups and daises,
How canst thou be afraid?

Then don't you trouble trouble
Till trouble trouble you;
You'll only double trouble,
And trouble others, too.
